Voice

This trait refers to the voice of the writer coming through in the writing. It gives the story feeling and individuality.

- words that show a character's voice

- punctuation that conveys voice

Character Voice

Read each scenario below. Write a sentence or two expressing the voice you would use. The first one has been done for you.

1. You are going to a carnival after school if the weather is nice. You have waited a long time to go. Today is the only day your family is able to go. You look outside and it's raining. You say:

"Oh, no! It's raining. Now we won't be able to go!"

2. You are having trouble with your homework. Your friend comes over to help you. Now it's easy to do. What do you say to your friend?

3. Your friend has a new baby brother. He is so small and cute. What would you say to the baby?

4. You are walking to school with your friend. Your friend bends down to tie his shoe. You see a car speeding around the corner. It is very close. What do you say to your friend?

5. It's the last day of school. You are going on vacation tomorrow. What do you say when the bell rings to go home?

6. It's almost time for lunch and you are really hungry. You smell food cooking in the lunchroom. It's pizza. What do you say?
