

Table of Contents

Introduction	3
Teacher's Notes	5
Unit 1 A Long Way from Home	9
Unit 2 The Babysitter's Revenge	14
Unit 3 The Farmer, His Son, and a Donkey	19
Unit 4 Sarah and the Secret Castle	24
Unit 5 The Great Race	29
Unit 6 The Dolphin Mystery	34
Unit 7 Bowey Island	39
Unit 8 Bakerstown Council	44
Unit 9 The Troll/Different	49
Unit 10 The Giant with Teeth of Fire	54
Unit 11 Stop Clowning Around!	59
Unit 12 The Saltshaker Trick	64
Unit 13 Superstitious	69
Unit 14 Cinema Situation	74
Unit 15 Leonardo da Vinci	79
Unit 16 The Painting in the Shed	84
Unit 17 Blaze Destroys School	89
Unit 18 The First Spider	94
Unit 19 Firstborn Fury!	99
Unit 20 Change Your Life!	104
Common Core State Standards	109

Name _____

Read the fable and answer the questions on the following pages.

A farmer stood shaking his head after inspecting his meager wheat crop. He concluded that it would not support his family for the following year, so he called for his son to prepare the donkey to be sold at the markets.

The farmer, the son, and the donkey walked side by side to the market. On their journey, they passed a group of women who started to laugh when they saw the trio.

“Why are you both walking beside a donkey when you could ride it?” they asked curiously.

The farmer shrugged and ordered his son to climb up on the donkey’s back. They continued along the path to the market until they passed an old man who pointed his finger at them in anger.

“You ungrateful boy! Why do you ride like a king when your poor father walks on his tired feet? Children have lost all respect for their elders!” the old man scolded.

The farmer looked at his son, who slid down the side of the donkey—his face red with shame. The father shrugged again and mounted the donkey’s back.

Moments later, they walked past a group of young girls who were astonished at the sight before them.

“You are a cruel man,” the girls jeered. “Why do you ride while your son stumbles along beside you like a servant?”

The boy looked up at his father, whose face was beet-red. The farmer motioned for the donkey to stop so that his son could climb aboard.

Just outside the village, a group of travelers were sitting by a small fire having a conversation. When they saw the two passengers on the donkey, they stopped chatting and called out in anger.

“Why do you ride that poor donkey? Can you not see his back buckling under your weight? It would be smarter for you to carry him than he to carry you!”

The boy and his father quickly dismounted the donkey and looked for a long pole. They tied the donkey’s legs together, attached him upside down to the pole, and then positioned the pole on their shoulders.

As they entered the market, the donkey, seeing the market stalls and villagers upside down, decided he was not happy with his predicament and began to kick and buck so hard that the ropes broke, and he fell to the ground. In an instant, the donkey had galloped away. The farmer and his son stood and watched in amazement as the donkey disappeared from their sight.

THE FARMER, HIS SON, AND A DONKEY

Literal

Find the answers directly in the text.

1. Complete the chart.

Who?	What did they demand?
	Someone to ride the donkey
Old man
	Son to ride the donkey
Travelers

2. What caused the farmer's face to turn beet-red?

Inferential

Think about what the text says.

1. A fable is a story that teaches the reader a lesson about how to behave. The lesson is what's called the "moral" of the story. What do you think the moral of this fable is?

- a. Slow and steady wins the race.
- b. It is easier to think up a plan than to carry it out.
- c. He who tries to please everybody, pleases nobody.

2. Explain your choice.

THE FARMER, HIS SON, AND A DONKEY

Applied

Use what you know about the text and your own experience.

1. "It would be smarter for you to carry him than he to carry you!"

Do you think the travelers meant for the farmer and the son to carry the donkey? Explain your answer.

2. a. Who do you think had the right idea about the trip to the markets?

- Farmer and son Women Old man Girls Travelers

b. Explain your choice.

3. Why is it not a good idea to try and please everyone?

THE FARMER, HIS SON, AND A DONKEY

Predicting

Use the text on page 20 to complete the activities. Retell the story of the trio's journey to the markets from the donkey's point of view. Include what the donkey was thinking during the day's events and reveal what happened to him once he had fled the markets.

Your story can be in the form of: a diary a play a narrative story (with dialogue)

Title: _____

What were you thinking when you left the farm?

Who did you meet along the way?

How did you feel about your passengers?

Where did you run to?

Who did you meet there?
