The Real Thing?
When the fire alarm started to ring, the class knew what to do. Beth got in line and whispered to Cassy, "I wonder why we're having another fire drill. We had one last week."

All the classes lined up on the playground. Then everyone turned and looked at the school. They waited for the "All Clear" bell to ring so they could go back inside.

Instead of a bell, they heard sirens! A huge fire truck pulled up to the school. A police car came, too.

Everyone started whispering excitedly. Beth heard people say, "Is there a real fire?" Then she heard someone yell, "The school is on fire!"

Beth felt very excited and very scared at the same time. Would their classroom be okay? She gasped. "What about Jason?" Jason was her classroom's pet hamster.

Just then, the "All Clear" bell rang. The children look at each other in surprise. They started to walk back toward the school.

When they got back inside, Ms. Hart said, "That was a false alarm. A little smoke from a toaster set off the fire alarm. Everything is okay."

Beth leaned over and whispered to Cassy, "I'm glad it wasn't real. But that was exciting!"
